SUMMARY OF LAST EVENT: 2015 LNG in BC: Marine & Land Transport Applications (An SAEBE SNAME CIMarE joint Event)

Following-up a successful joint SAE/ASME/SNAME/CIMarE events over the past two years on LNG transport applications, we would like to thank those who participated in this year's 3rd annual event held at Westport on Saturday, May 23rd. This was an informative session that focused on LNG uses in marine and land applications. As LNG continues to develop in BC, we would like to keep our members abreast of the latest technologies and information available, and to provide a mechanism for sharing knowledge and networking.

The day began with an introduction and overview of general world LNG issues and economic drivers, presented by event organizer and host Colin Keddie from Wainbee.

Paul Blomerus, VP Product Development at Westport Innovations kicked off the technical portion of the day by giving us a solid overview of types of market challenges and technological achievements that Westport is producing. Paul is responsible for strategic planning and management of new product introductions.

Quentin Stewart, Sales Manager at Wartsila North America talked about Wartsila's latest dual fuel engines that can seamlessly transfer from one fuel type to another without a noticeable change in performance. There can also be lower lifetime operating cost benefits, provided low cost LNG is available.

Finally, Harly Penner, Port Engineer at Seaspan Ferry Corp. gave an excellent overview of the decisions made to purchase and operate their new fleet of transport carriers operating on dual fuel LNG engines. We learned about how the company plans on bunkering LNG fuel in the safest possible manner, along with other highlights like the ship's overall design and build schedule.

The event ended with a networking session, and some prizes awarded to participants. Overall, the event was very well received, with positive comments that are always appreciated. The input generated will be incorporated in our next event.

I would like to again thank our supporters and sponsors for this event, Westport and Wainbee, along with our volunteers, and look forward to seeing you all again next time!

Best regards,
Colin Keddie, P.Eng
